

note for Ellie: When building app notes where possible in the code, so anyone else can understand what you have done, in case someone has to pick this up if you busy or down the line

Probably worth making it clear somewhere that if one out of 5 items are disputed the other 4 would be paid out ie we won't hold on to all their dosh. I think this is a big selling point for them and will mean that they're more likely to break down the job. Perhaps we should also include messaging around "no longer having to chase money to get paid", "no difficult customers refusing to pay even when the work is complete" etc ie all the reasons they should be using us

Just occurred to me that we should be doing the same for the customer - "no more paying in advance and risking tradie not turning up" although how do we deal with tradies asking for money up front for materials? Do we allow it or they just have to fund it? If it's a long job, do we

Add better 'marketing copy' throughout

When raise dispute giving option for customer to request tradie come back- need to discuss

- Where does this sit?
 - once they click raise dispute is it then an option underneath to instead request tradie return- tradie then gets notified? how do they agree time etc, if tradie starts battling back after they have requested fighting there case in messages this can then get messy- can the customer then cancel this request and just dispute the payment?
 - So is it automated where tradie submits dates he can come back and then just this is sent to the customer to accept or decline and then can decide to just raise a payment dispute (e.g. if can't come back for 3 weeks)?
- When they click request return- it then takes them to a very similar page to the raise dispute bit where they select the line under question for them to return, provide images, description etc- this however doesn't go to us, but straight to the tradie to review and either accept (then submits date options) or decline, in which case it automatically turns into payment dispute.
- For this if they are requesting to them to return for just say a shelf not the walls, does the other payments release straight away or pause it all? If we release the money and the tradie never turns up when is the money then released to the pissed off customer? Do they have a time frame to say they did not come- is there leeway on arrival again (I don't think so on a return if they say tuesday it is tuesday)
- Is it just the customer that can request this option?. Or if the customer decides to raise payment dispute, can the tradie then counter this by saying I will come back? I am not sure on this? If the customer wanted them back they would of clicked that option

Team member

Team members help manage day-to-day jobs.

They can:

- View jobs they're assigned to
- Message customers about those jobs
- Upload photos and updates
- Mark jobs as complete

They can't:

- Create new jobs
- Accept jobs from customers
- Change pricing or quotes
- Access account settings or payments
- Add or remove other users

Each team member has their own login and access via the YAKKA app.

In version 2, we can add 'manager' as an option, where they have more access than team member but aren't the account owner

CONTINUE

Changes to continue once they enter an email address

For a smoother user experience, you can give new tradies temporary access:
Let them browse job requests or fill out their profile while verification is pending.
Clearly label their account as “Pending Verification” until approved.
That avoids frustration and makes them feel like they’re already part of YAKKA.

Text pop up for each status: Tradie

Status: Awaiting Job Breakdown

What this means:

The job has been sent to your tradie. They need to add the task breakdown and pricing before you can approve and pay.

Tip:

You can copy or resend the job link anytime as a reminder.

Status: Waiting for Customer Payment

What this means:

The customer hasn't paid yet. Funds will appear as "Received" once YAKKA confirms payment.

Tip:

You can resend or copy your job link if they need it again.

Status: Payment Received — Safe to Start

What this means:

The customer has paid in full. Funds are now held securely by YAKKA until the job is complete.

Feel secure: You can start work knowing payment is guaranteed once both sides confirm completion.

Status: Marked Complete — Awaiting Customer

What this means:

You've marked the job complete. The customer is now reviewing your work before confirming release of funds.

Customers have a short review period to confirm or raise a concern. You'll be notified when they respond.

Status: Under Review by YAKKA

What this means:

The customer has raised a dispute about part or all of this job. YAKKA's team is reviewing the details.

Tip:

You can upload photos or notes in the Job Messages section to support your case.

Status: Awaiting Payout from YAKKA

What this means:

The job has been confirmed complete. YAKKA is processing your payout

Tip:

This usually takes 1—2 business days depending on your bank.

Status: Payment Released — Job Complete

What this means:

Funds have been released and sent to your bank account.

Tip:

You can download your invoice or view full payment details anytime from this job's page.

Raise a Dispute

Status: Partially Paid — Work in Progress

What this means:

A partial payment has been released.
The remaining balance will be paid once the job is completed and confirmed.

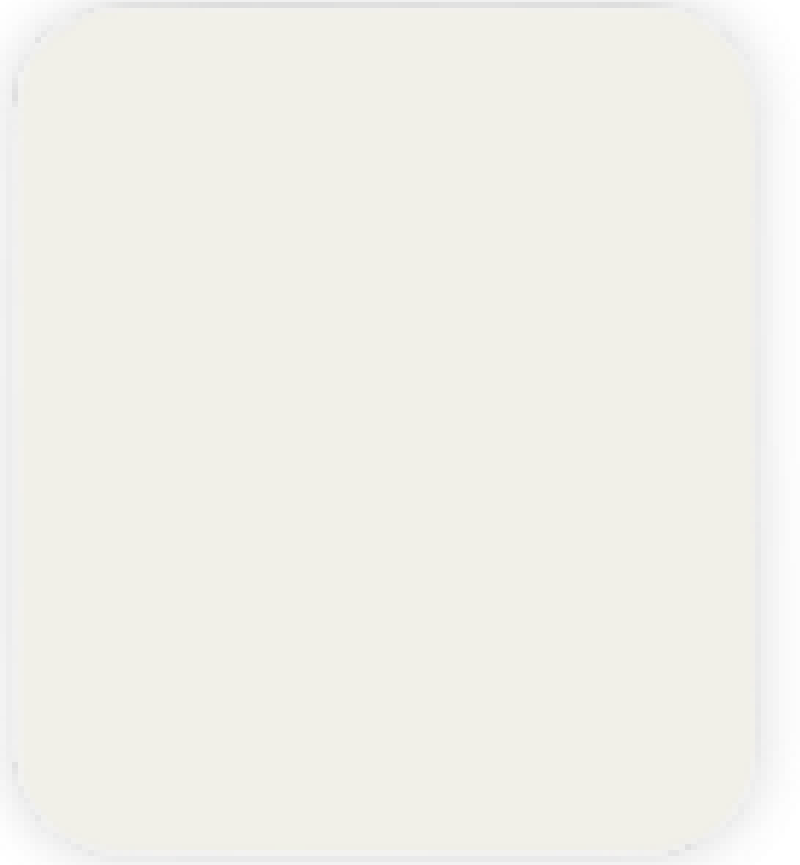

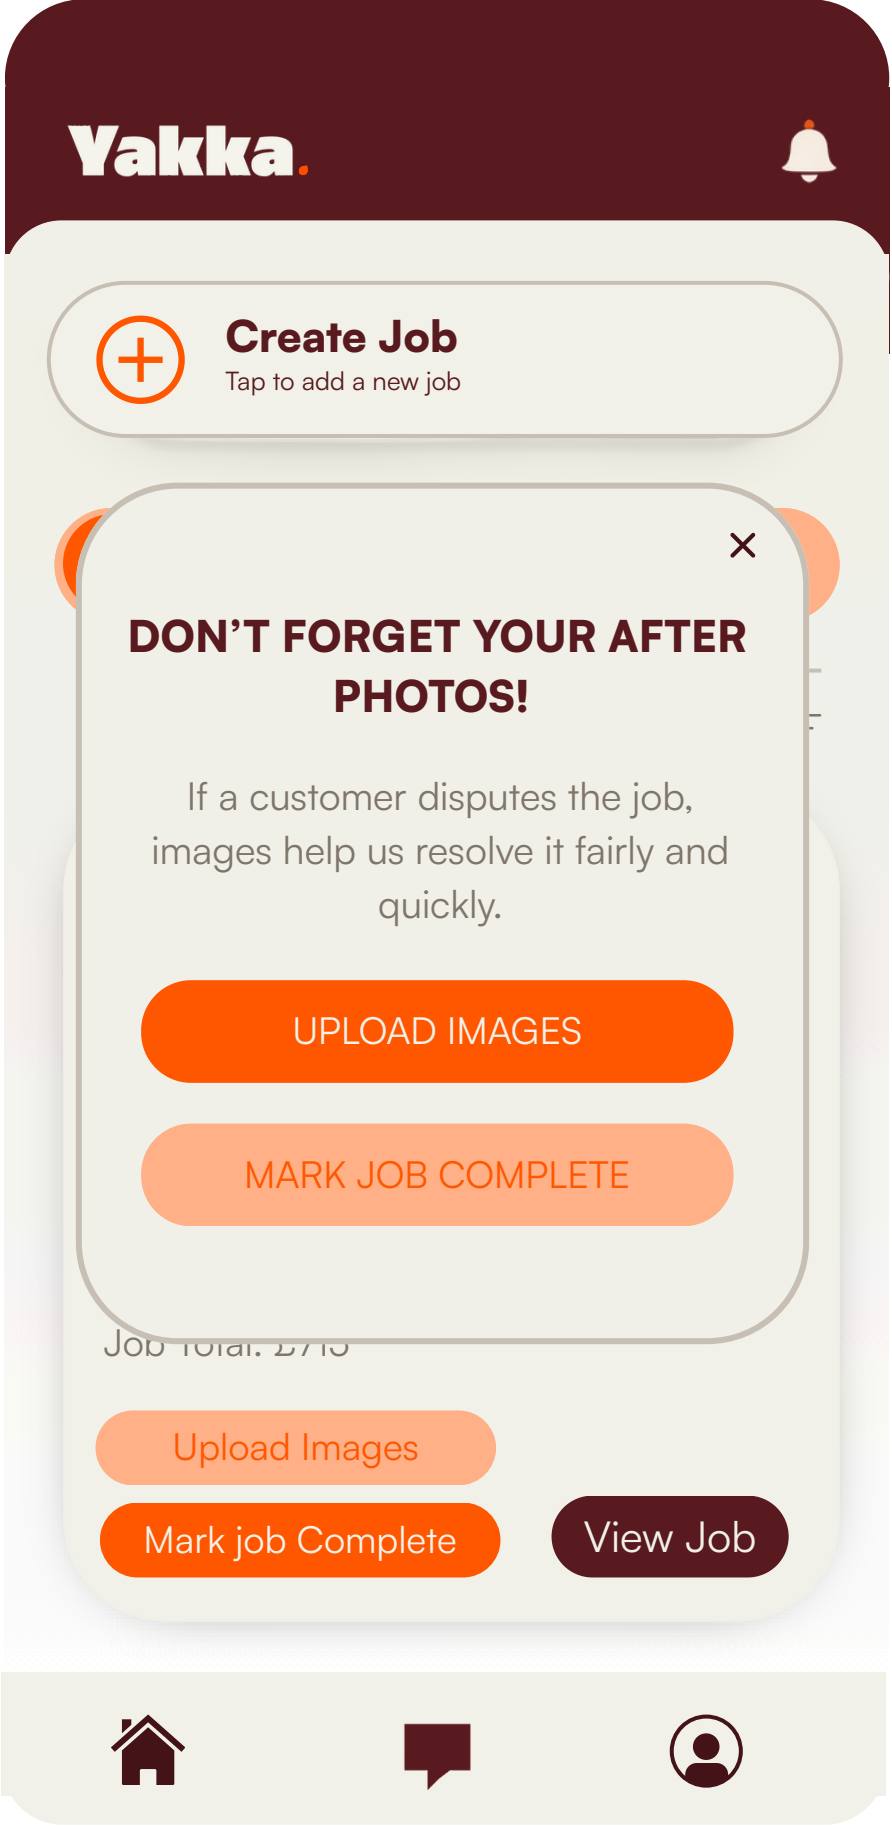

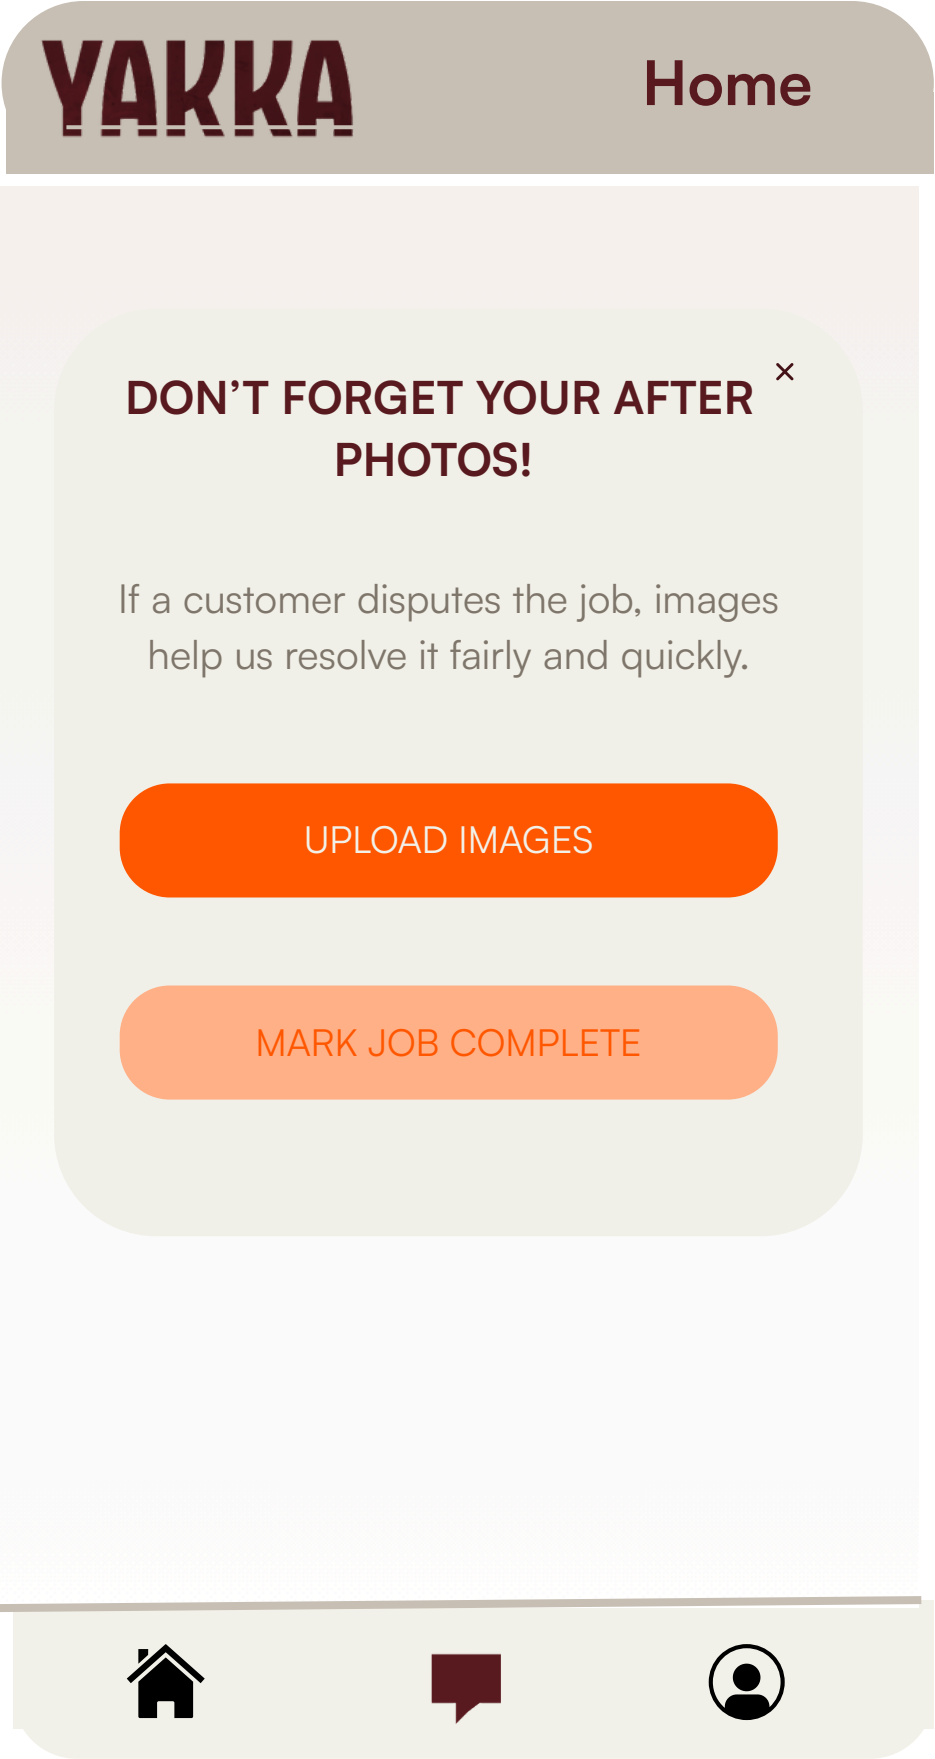

Tip:

Make sure you continue to capture photos if case you need to raise a dispute.

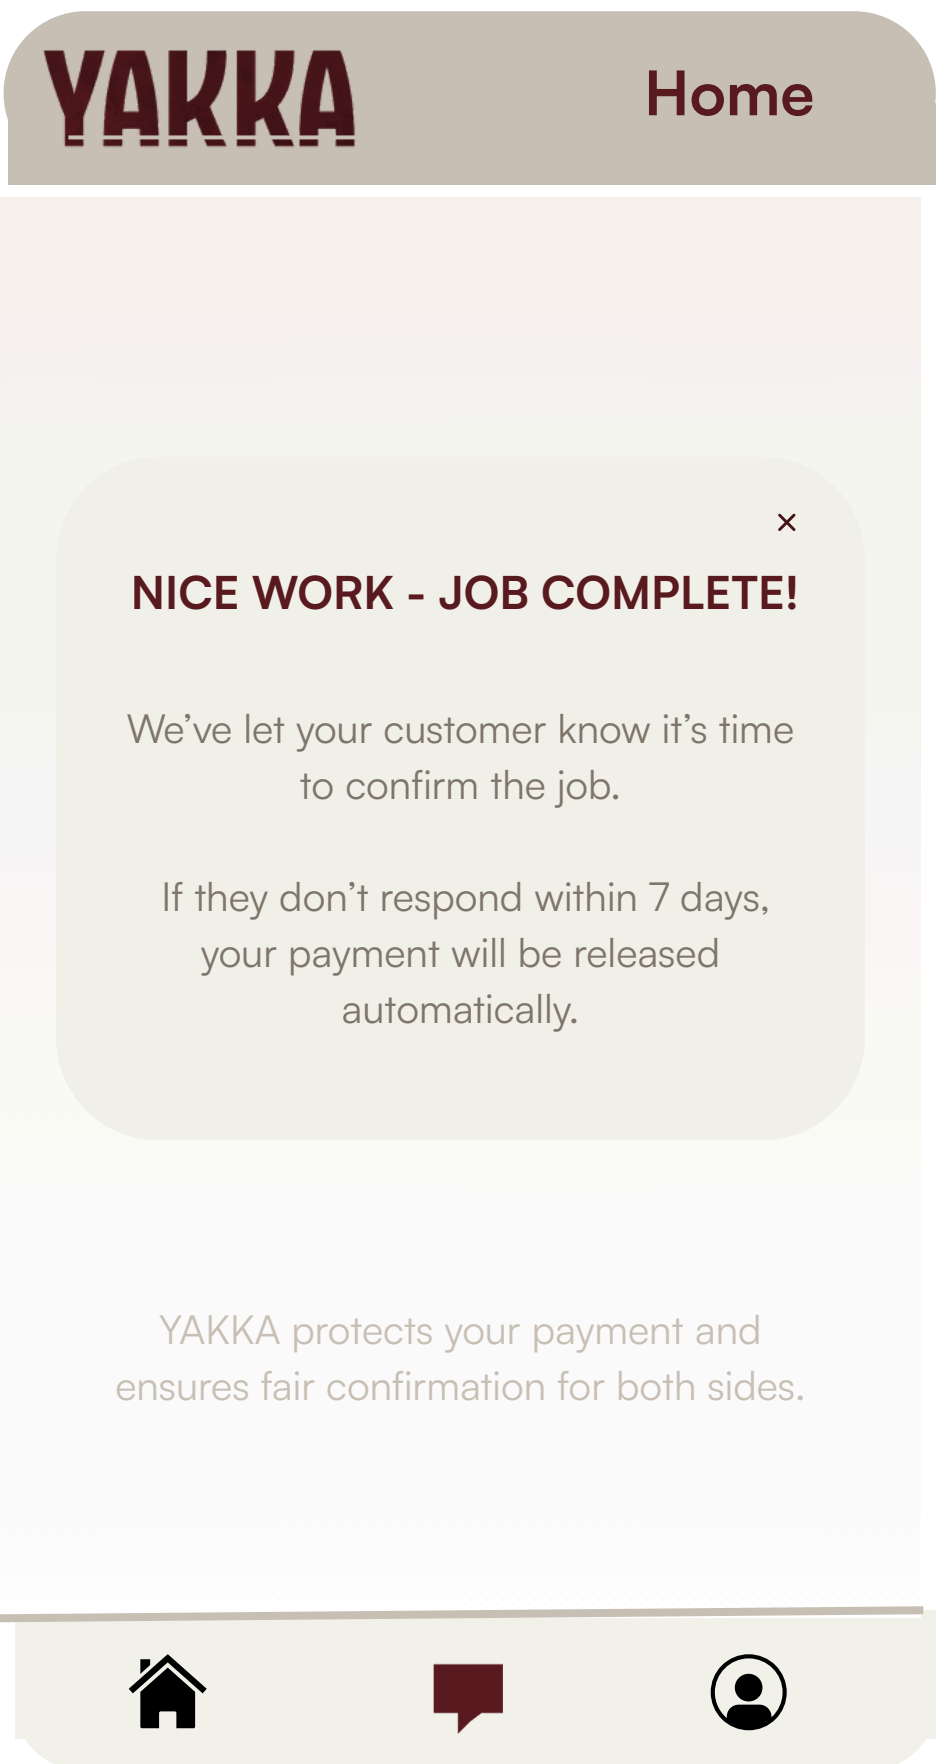

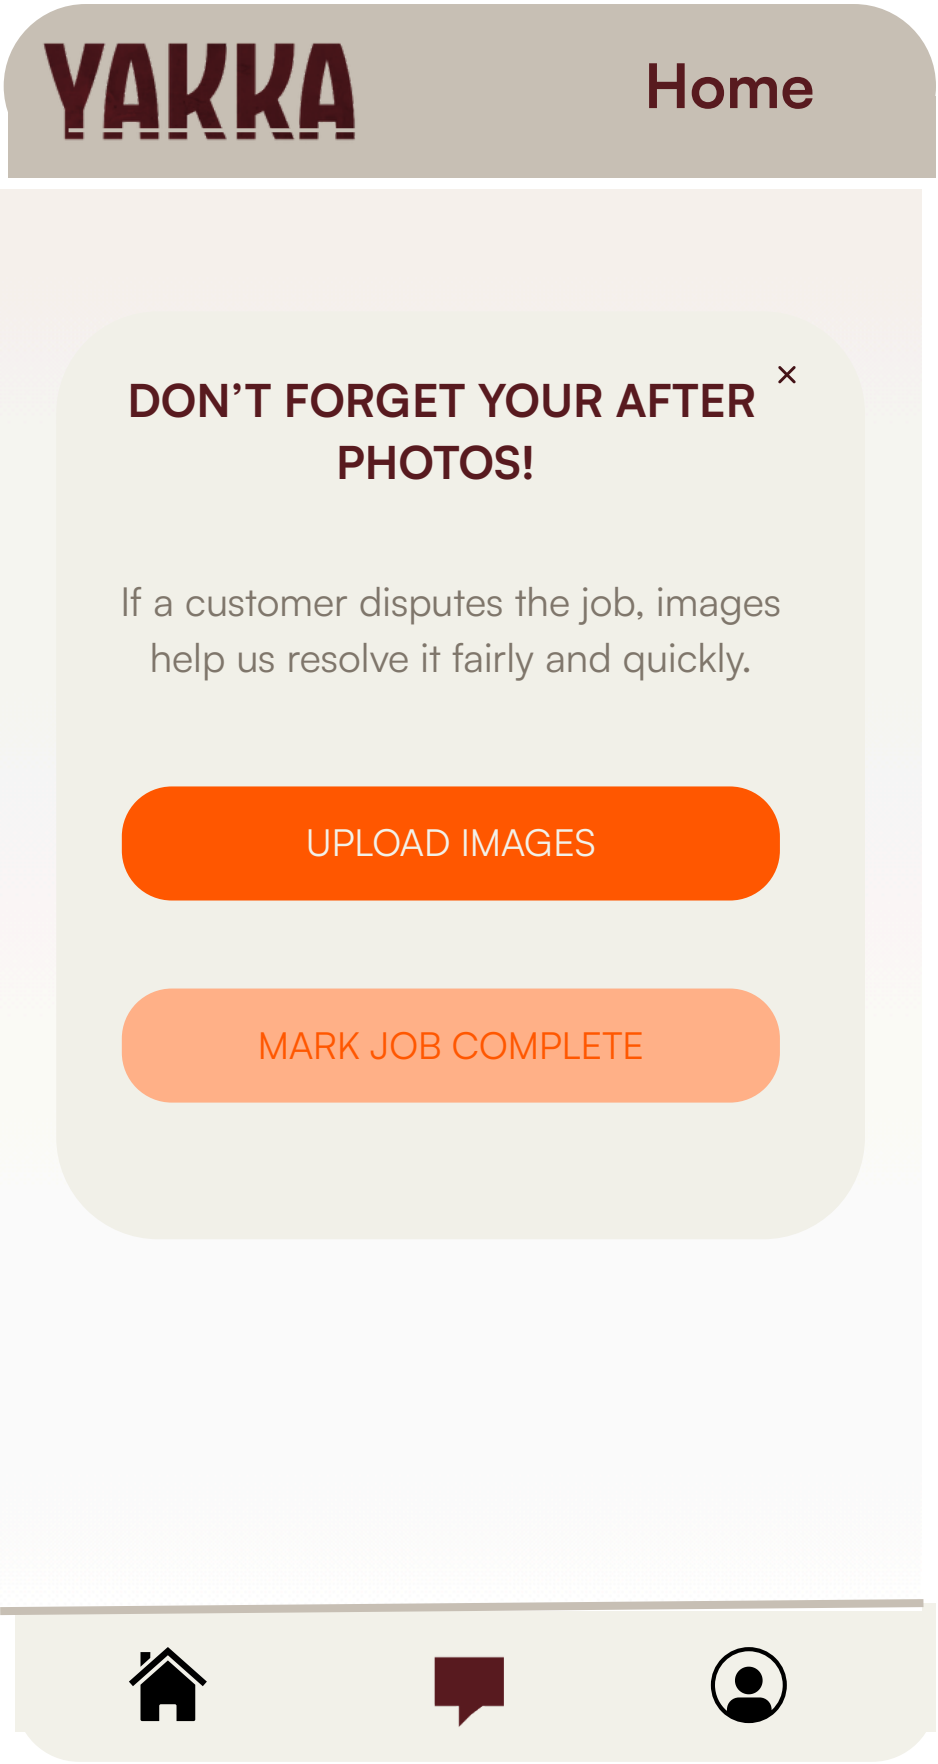

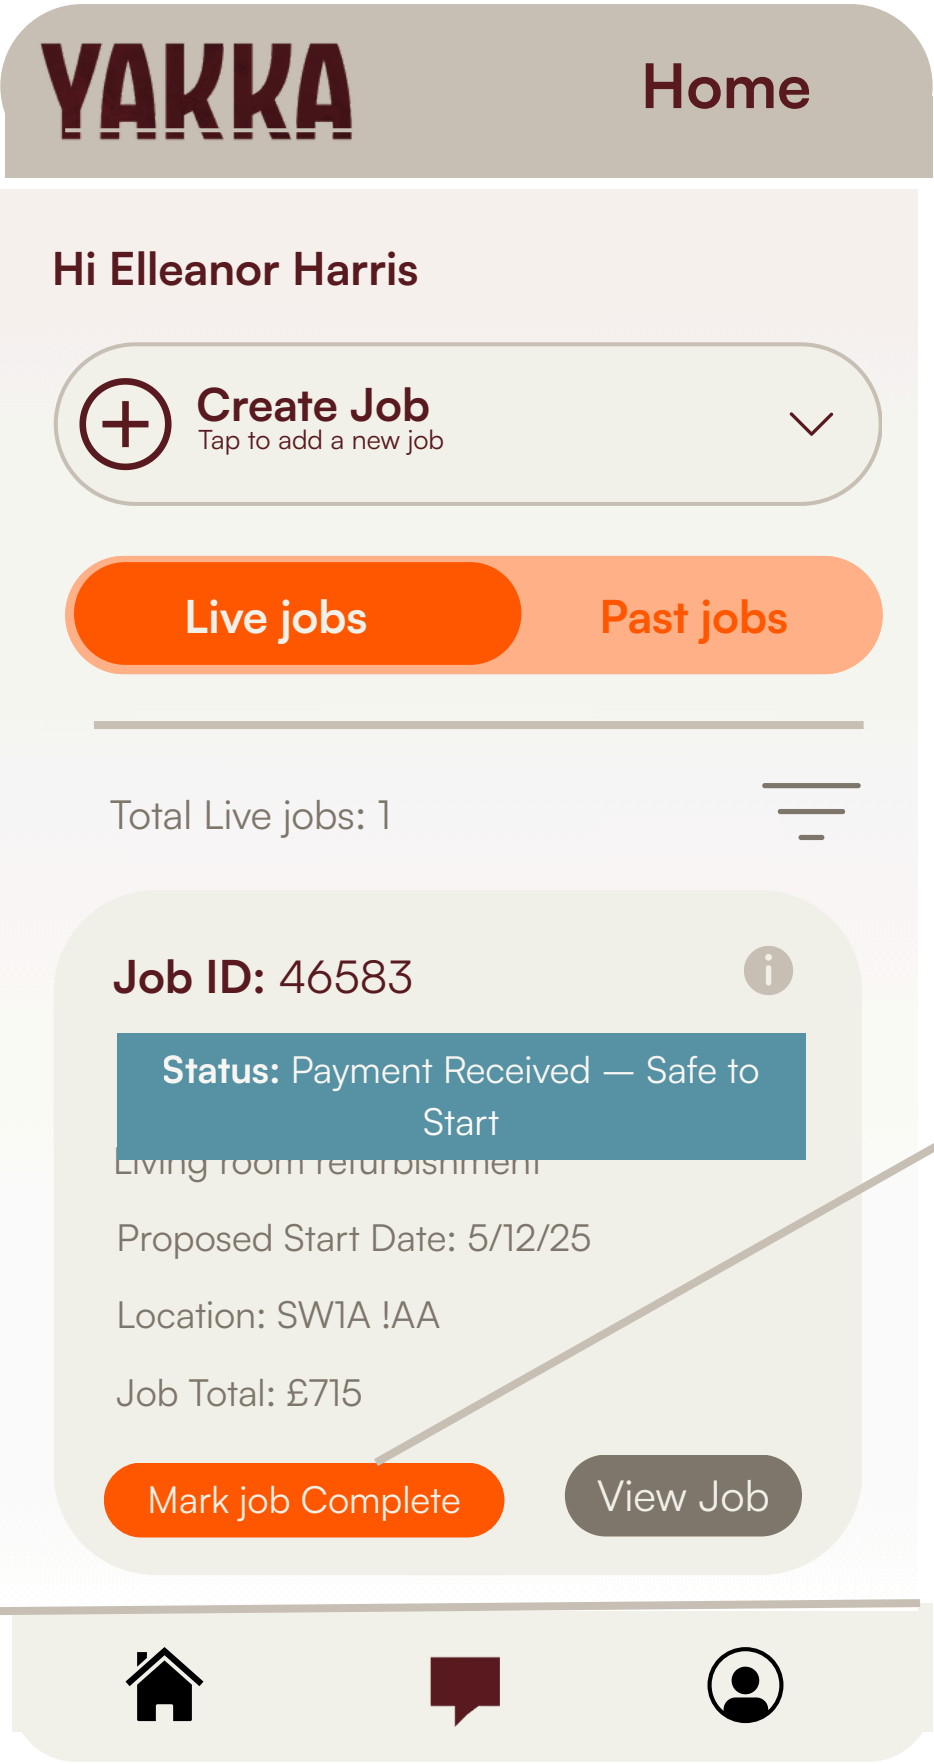

Mark job as complete

Mark job as complete- tradie

This is where we advise them to take pictures

- They get notification on proposed start date to take and upload pictures of the before (saying also take pictures at the end)
- Then as they go to click complete it says take and upload images again
- These are all then stored in the chat feature of the job

Dispute

Version 1

Customer taps Report an Issue

→ opens a dispute form with text + photo uploads.

including:

job ID

job breakdown

customer's complaint

customer's photos

time/date

customer name

✓ App updates job status → Under Review by YAKKA

System message in chat:

Customer raised an issue. YAKKA is reviewing the details.

✓ You investigate manually via email

You reply to customer & tradie by email.

✓ You manually update job status in the database

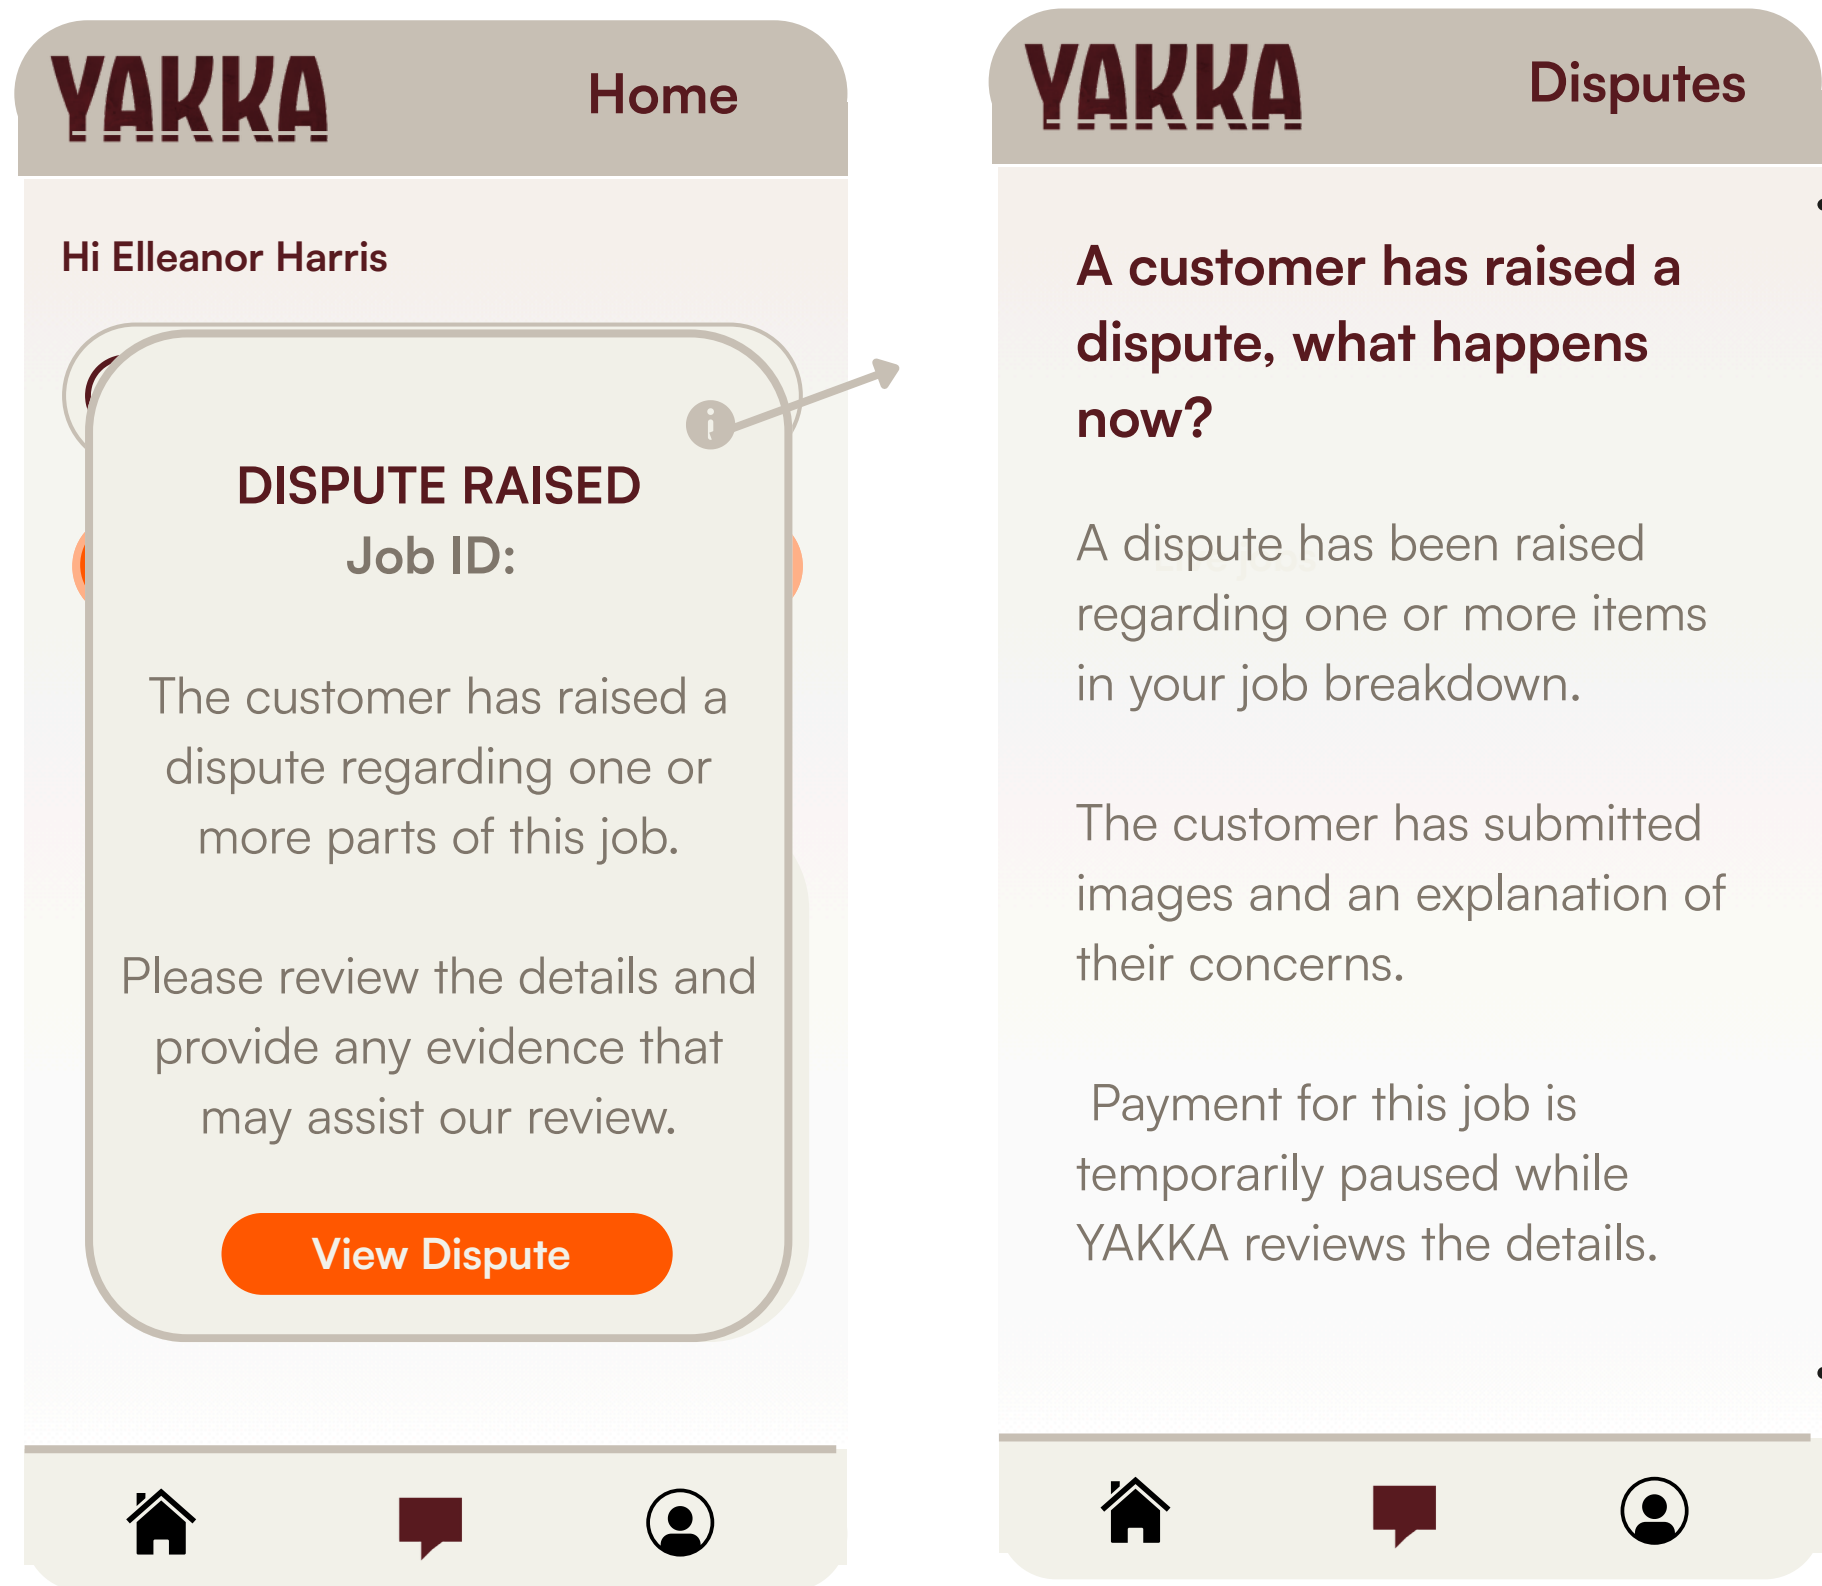

✓ You write final outcome to customer & tradie

Either by email or copy/paste inside chat.

Version 2:

this would all be handled in app, with messages via the YAKKA support account within the same message chat that the builder and customer have spoken on so full job history is always kept in one place. we would then be able to log in search ID and see all information, messages, images etc to do with the job, as well as message in the chat.

They will receive notification saying a dispute has been raised. Next time they go into the app or click the notification the below pop up will appear

FULL TEXT for Info icon:

A dispute has been raised regarding one or more items in your job breakdown.

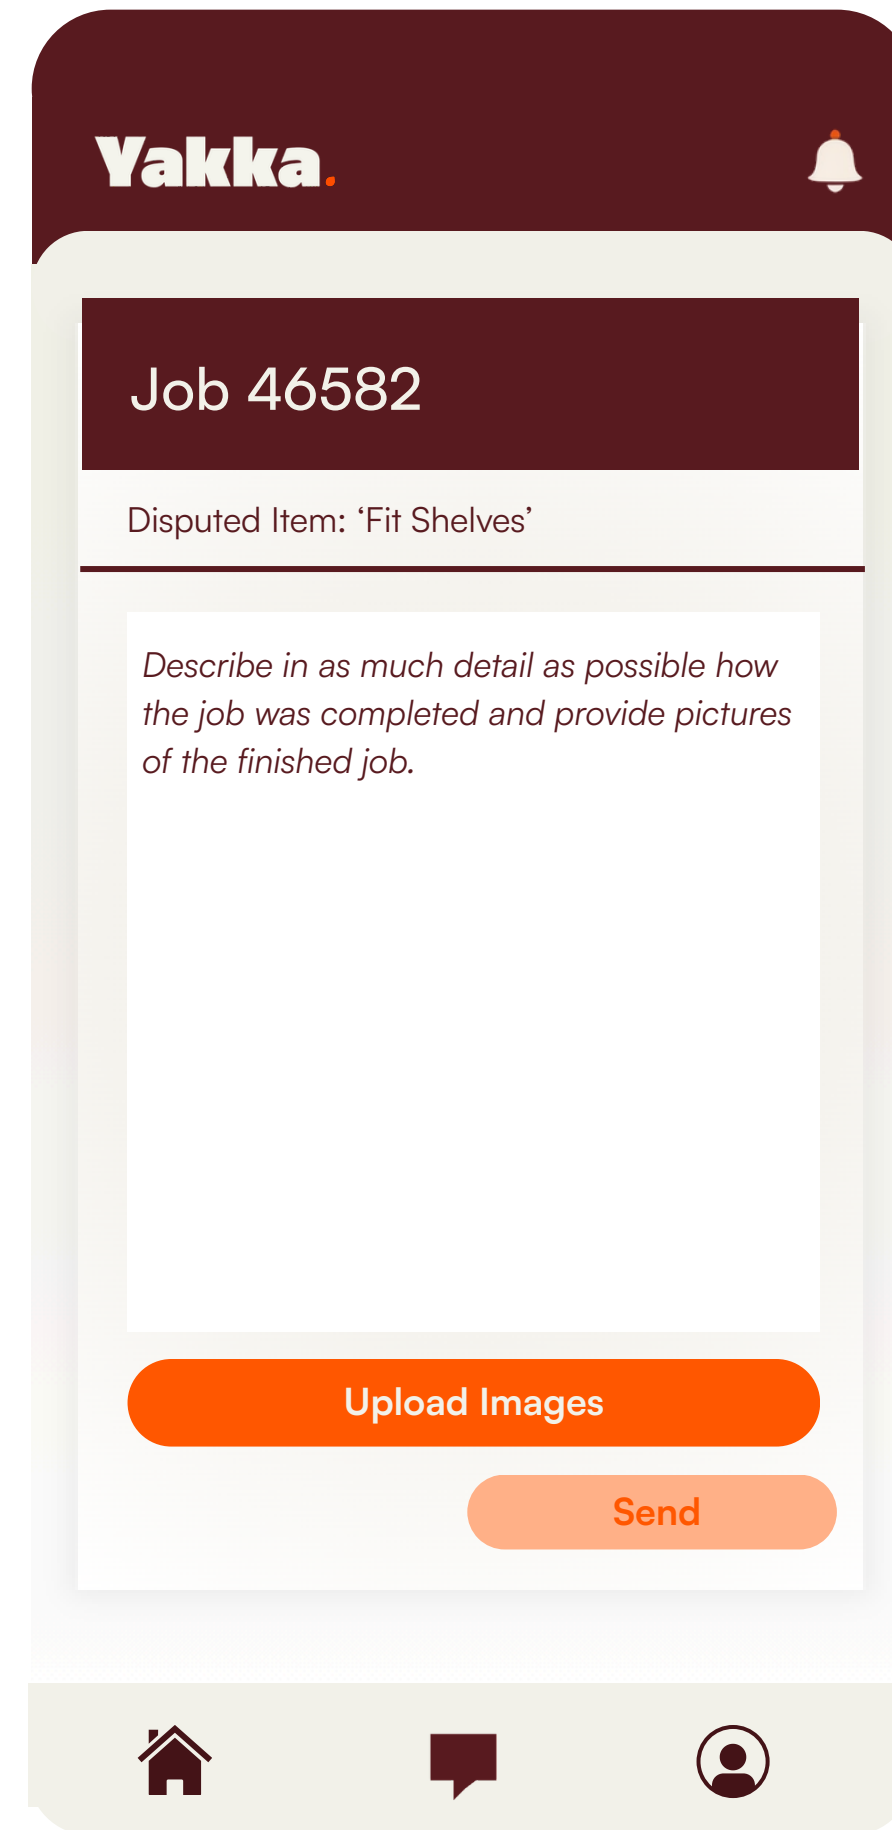

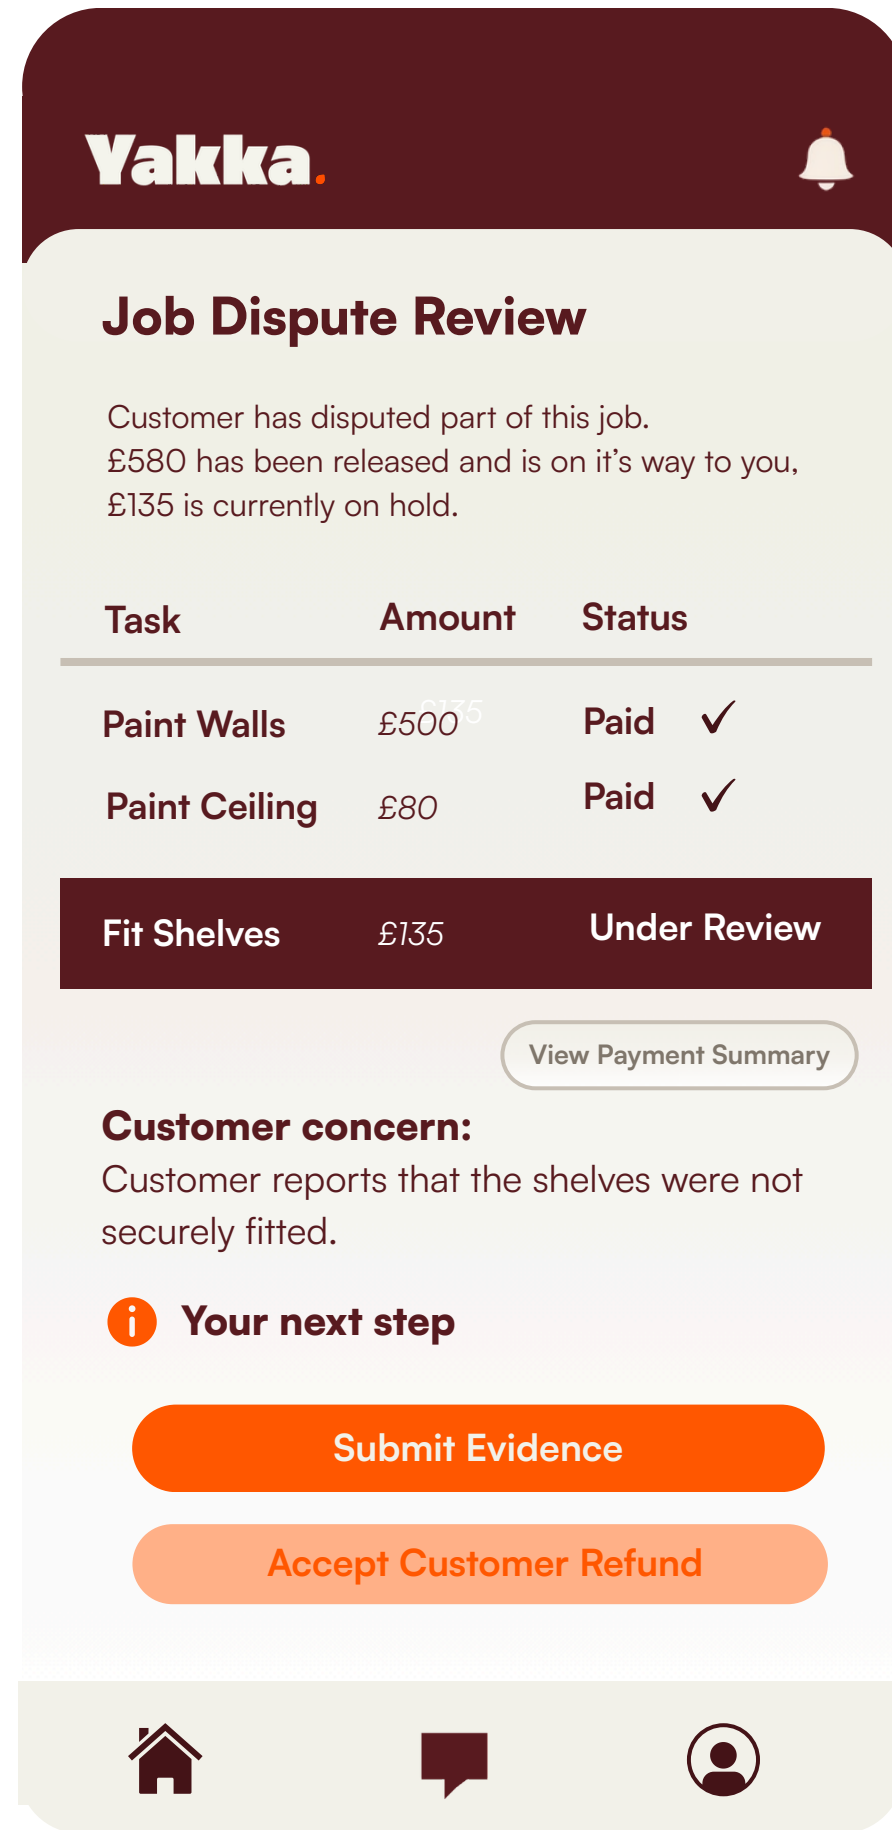

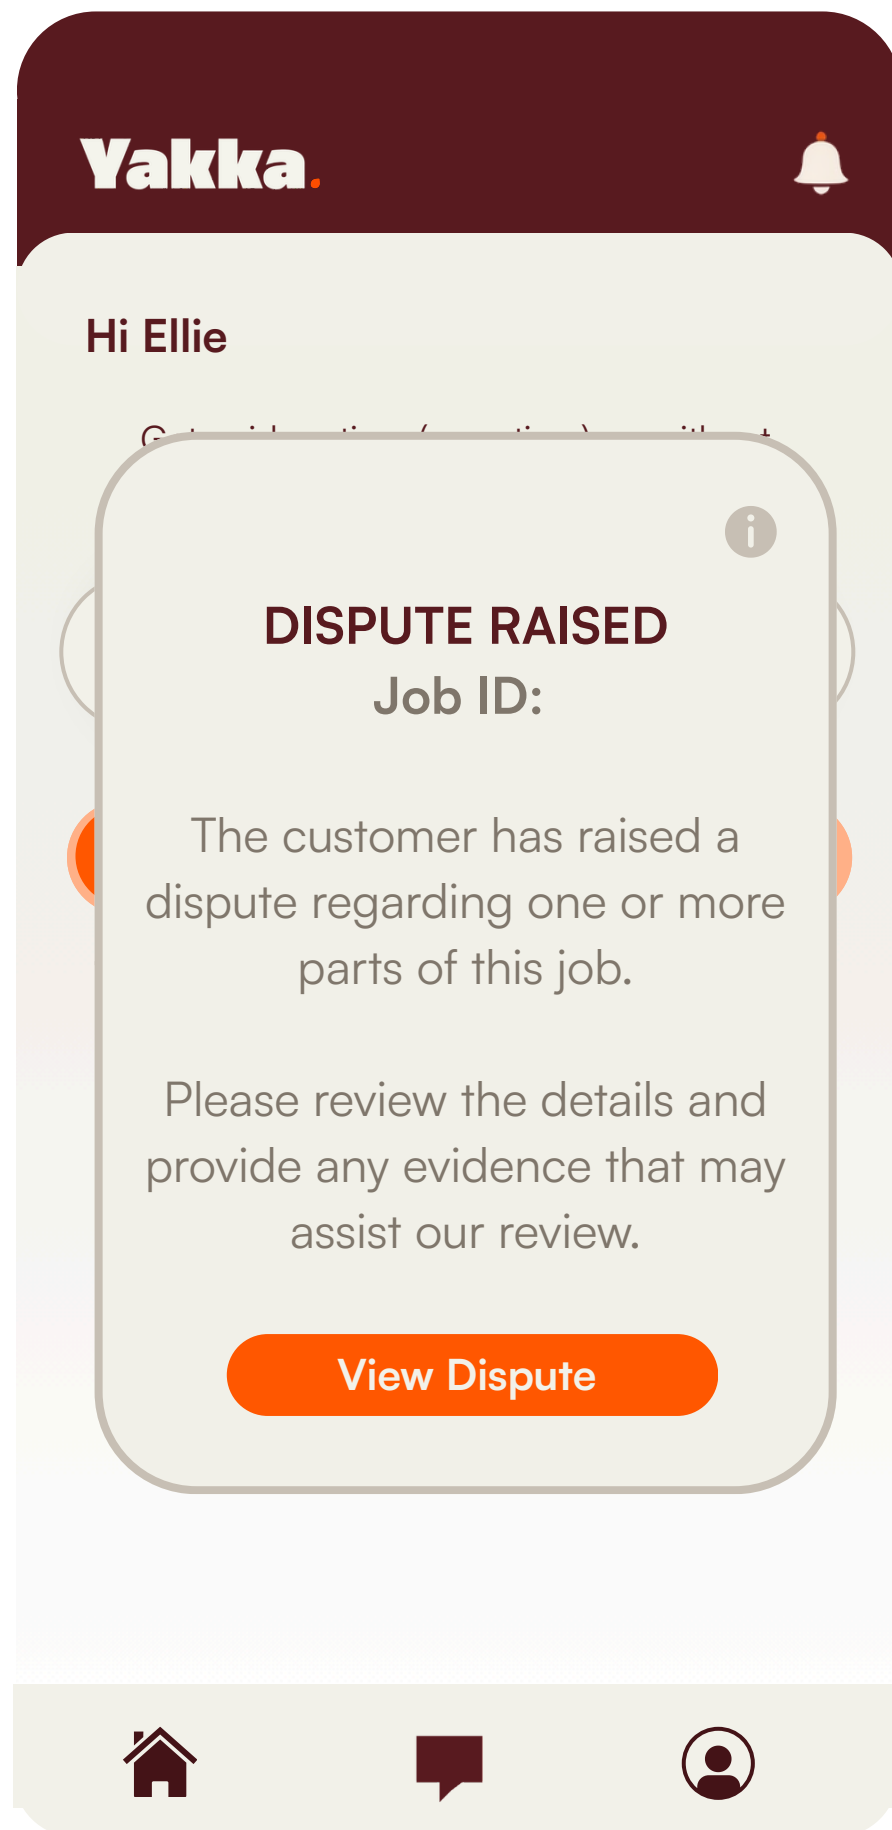

The customer has submitted images and an explanation of their concerns.

Payment for this job is temporarily paused while YAKKA reviews the details.

You now have an opportunity to upload your own images, notes, or other supporting evidence.

YAKKA will compare both sides against the agreed job breakdown and the information provided.

We will review the case and issue a decision within 5 days.
Both you and the customer will be notified once the review is complete, and payment will be released accordingly.

YAKKA ADMIN ACCOUNT

Even though disputes at the beginning will be handled via email. We still need a basic admin account which gives us access to all jobs on the platform, where we can go in view the breakdown, messages, details etc. As well as edit the status when disputes have been resolved, and input the outcome etc.

We should be able to search by job number

This account will then evolve to be where all disputes are handled (via the web version of it)
